Chancellor lets-down on UK Budget

Stirling MP Alyn Smith has expressed disappointment at the latest UK Budget news, as the Chancellor Rishi Sunak fails to deliver for Stirling's communities.

Whilst the extension to furlough and self-employed support is welcome, this is something the Scottish Government has repeatedly called for to give employees and employers greater certainty. The Chancellor refused to make the £20 uplift in Universal Credit permanent, and failed to reverse cuts to Scotland's capital budget.

Scottish Budget deal delivers for Stirling

The Scottish Government has secured support from the Scottish Green Party, to enable budget proposals to proceed in the Scottish Parliament.

Ambitious plans to tackle the impact of Covid-19, inequality and the climate emergency will build a firm foundation for Scotland's economic and social recovery.

Plans now include free bus travel for under 22's, which will benefit young people across Stirling in terms of employment and education.

Short-Term Let support welcomed

Local MSP Bruce Crawford and local Councillor Evelyn Tweed have warmly welcomed an announcement from the First Minister, on fresh upcoming support for B&B and short-term lets.

During a question session in the Scottish Parliament, Mr Crawford emphasised to the First Minister the importance of tourism to Stirling's local economy, and enquired regarding specific sectoral support.

Details of the new support scheme will be announced in due course.
